NO FUNDS; RELIEF COMMITTEE SUSPENDED

PARIS, (JTA) — Owing to lack of funds the National Relief Committee for German Jewish Refugees in France, suspended its relief activities Tuesday.

The Committee, of which Henri Berenger of France is the president, will continue to function only as an intermediary between the refugees and the authorities.

NAZI PITCHFORKS DRIVE JEWS OFF BEACH RESORT

BERLIN, (JTA) — Armed with pitchforks, a mob of uniformed Nazis Tuesday invaded the popular bathing resort, Wannsee, a few hours ride from Berlin, and drove all the Jews from the beach.

Shouting, "Jews get out," the Nazis created a panic when they appeared at the beach. Similar events are reported from all over the country, where local Nazis, inspired by the anti-Jewish attacks Monday night in Berlin, invaded the beaches and drove out the Jews.

MELCHETT GIVES PALESTINE HOPE

VALUE OF COUNTRY AS ECONOMIC BASE STRESSED IN ADDRESS

LONDON, (JTA)—The hope that Palestine will in the near future be settled with three million Jews and that it will become as important a strategic and economic base as Singapore, was expressed here last week at a banquet attended by more than 600 of the outstanding Jews in England.

The banquet took place at the Guild Hall and was arranged in conjunction with the campaign now being carried on in England to enable the planting of a forest in Palestine in the name of King George, whose Silver Jubilee is being celebrated throughout the United Kingdom this year. Lord Melchett was chairman.

Valuable Link

"With three million loyal devoted Jews to protect it," Lord Melchett said, "Palestine can become the most valuable link in the great trading route to the Near East and other British possessions. It certainly can be as important to Great Britain as is Singapore at present."

Sir Herbert Samuel, first High Commissioner in Palestine, disclosed the fact in his speech that he advocated the restoration of Palestine to the Jews under British auspices while the world was at its height.

Soon after Turkey entered the war, Sir Herbert said, he was the first to draw the attention of the British Cabinet to the significance of acquiring Palestine and aiding the Jews to establish their national home there.

Stating that work for Palestine is the most sacred duty of every Jew, Sir Herbert hailed the campaign for the Jubilee Forest.

STREET TO BE NAMED IN HONOR OF DREYFUS

TEL AVIV, (JTA) — The name of Col. Dreyfus will be commemorated in Palestine by naming a street after the late Jewish martyr.

The municipality of Tel Aviv, at its session this week, decided to name one of the streets of the all-Jewish city, "Dreyfus Street."

Orthodox Rabbis Of Poland Oppose New Marriage Plan

WARSA (JTA)—Contract marriages of the sort proposed by the Rabbinical Assembly of America at its recent conference will be combatted by the Agudath Harabonim, the association of Orthodox rabbis in Poland, according to a decision adopted last week by the association.

An appeal will be sent by the Orthodox rabbis of Poland to American Jewry to ignore the decision of the Rabbinical Assembly which would allow a deserted wife to obtain a divorce automatically if her husband deserted her for a period of more than three years.

The decision of the Rabbinical Assembly was met here with tremendous criticism among the Orthodox rabbis. Especially condemned was that part of divorce law change which recommends that, before marrying, Jewish couples should be asked to sign a special provision in the marriage contract which would give the wife the right to obtain a divorce if she has not been supported by her husband for a period of three years, or if her husband has deserted her for that length of time.

"Parties obtaining divorces under this provision are, according to the Jewish law, liable to excommunication from the Jewish community," says the resolution of the Association of Orthodox Rabbis. The decision emphasizes that any woman who obtains a divorce under the "contract marriage" sponsored by the Rabbinical Assembly of America, will be forbidden to remarry a Jewish man.

LAUGHING AT NAZIS

BY DANIEL L. SCHORR

Hitlerism in America isn't a menace just now—it's a joke.

Torn with internal dissension, broken up into unimportant, squabbling factions, the once solid Friends of New Germany is but a shadow of its former self.

There is not one Nazi organization in America that could lead an anti-Semitic campaign. The Hitlerite organizations which have weakened as they have multiplied, are at present too occupied in fighting each other, to give a thought to anti-Semitism.

The German-Americans, by and large, have become disgusted with Nazi politics in America. For a while it seemed that Nazism was becoming dangerously attractive to the German-Americans here. But that danger has passed—for the moment at least.

The total membership of the myraid Nazi organization that have blossomed forth from the original bud, would not equal the membership of the Friends of New Germany in its halcyon days.

The disintegration of Nazism in America was long in coming, but it came with a bang. A series of events followed in quick succession, and when they ended, there was no Hitlerism to speak of.

The latest developments is the organization of a new anti-Jewish boycott organization the Deutscher Konsum Verband, which is going into active competition with the DAWA, once the exclusive anti-Jewish economic organization in America.

Jews Can Laugh

For the near future we can predict some desultory warfare between the organizations. The Jews can stand on the side-lines and laugh.

The DKV, as it is commonly known, is backed by the decimated remnants of the Friends of New Germany. The reason for the new organization is that the DAWA, (Deutsch - Amerikanischer Wirtschaftsausschuss) was veering away from the "Friends" toward the American National Socialist League.

And what is the National Socialist League? It is a rebel New York outfit that split away from the "Friends" in an insurrection, led by Anton Haegele, a shell-shocked young German.

The situation is funny: The densest German-American community is in New York, but the Friends of New Germany a national organization, has no following in that city. For the New York local has formed a new organization.

And how they battle! This reporter has seen one group storm the meeting of the other. He has seen chairs and bottles flying through the air, and police riot squads breaking into restore order. He has witnessed some of the new pogroms where only Nazis, no Jews, were hurt.

They fight in court too. The Haegele outfit besieged the printing plant of the Deutsche Beobachter, Nazi periodical. The "Friends" tried to regain control through a court injunction. In court, the rival Nazi factions regaled reporters and observers by charging each other with the grossest corruption, misrepresentation and embezzlement.

And while all this goes on, the rank-and-file of sincere pro-Nazis (and there were some) become disillusioned and turned anti-Nazi. They realized that their leaders are not personal representatives of Hitler-on-earth, but grasping politicians, eager to enhance their own prestige—if not their pocketbooks.

There is Louis Zahne, who heads the German-American Independent League, one of the numerous Nazi factions. We interviewed him with the specific purpose of verifying his own, reported political aspirations. He denied any such ambitions and protested that he was only a sincere German-American.

We asked him if he intended to run for office in the Yorkville German section of New York. He said no. We dared him to give us that in writing. "Surely I'd give it to you in writing," he replied.

"Some Other Time"

We took out pen and paper and began writing out a statement. He suddenly arose and walked out of the office. "Some other time," he called over his shoulder, "I have an important engagement now."

A strong clique ruled supreme among the American Hitlerites. There was never a sign of revolt in those days. Men like Fritz Gissibl, Water Kappe and Heinz Spanknoebel inspired respect among Germans in the United States.

Once a person became a member of the Friends in those days, he did not dare start a revolt against the leadership for here was also one effective threat—reprisal against relatives in Germany. For it was common knowledge that the Nazi here were working hand in hand with Nazi party in Germany.

During 1935, dissension behind the scenes began to grow. It burst forth last November after the Nazis were made a laughing stock through the conviction of William L. McLaughlin, managing editor of the Deutsche Zeitung, on charges of libel preferred by former magistrate Joseph Goldstein.

McLaughlin begged off his one-year jail term by printing an editorial lavishly praising the Jewish people,—something unheard of in the Zeitung, previously a vitriolic anti-Semitic sheet. This editorial killed the paper. Only two issues came out afterwards.

Another publication—the Deutscher—took its place, but the scandal ranked in the minds of some and presently the first organized revolt burst forth when Haegele and the New York chapter of the Friends seceded from the organization, forming the National Socialist League.

Then came the Beobachter-siege incident when the Haegele outfit took possession of the paper by physical force. They managed to retain control through a technicality. By a piece of luck, Haegele had happened to be the one to sign the lease in behalf of the Friends. This made him legal owner; and the Supreme Court of New York recently recognized that right.

Next, the DWA, which had been organized by the "Friends" to enlist German-Americans in a campaign to boycott Jewish business, threw off the parent organization's control with a manifesto roundly berating the leadership of Dr. Hubert Schnuch, president of the "Friends."

No Government Help

The names of the various Nazi organizations are high-sounding, but their membership and importance are ridiculously small. There was little doubt about the fact that the German government was financing Nazism here in its early days, but it wouldn't dare do that now. It could not favor one faction over the others.

It had been reported that the German government, at least the German Nazi party—financed Das Neue Deutschland, the publication to be issued here. But there are two publications: The Beobachter under Haegele's control and Der Deutscher Weckruf owned by the Friends of New Germany. To illustrate the rivalry between the organizations, the name of the Weckruf was recently changed to Weckruf und Beobachter to make it appear that it had included the other publication.

A further indication of disintegration is the attempt now being made by the Friends of New Germany to organize a League of German Societies in competition with the United German Societies, once a powerful federation.

A year ago we could attend a Nazi meeting in Yorkville and see a large and enthusiastic crowd jeer and hoot each time a speaker attacked the Jews.

The other night we attended a Nazi meeting. The attendance was laughably small. Where speakers once attacked Samuel Untermyer and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, they now attacked rival Nazi leaders.

That is why we say that today Hitlerism in America is not a menace, not the German brand of Hitlerism, at any rate. The seeds of Nazism are shriveling up in American soil.

RECORD CROWD ATTENDS ANNUAL BETH EL PICNIC

More than one thousand persons attended the annual Beth El Zedeck Congregation picnic, held last Sunday in Columbia Park. The attendance at the outing, passed by far, the attendance at affairs of previous years, and it is said that this event was the greatest ever launched by Indianapolis Jewry.

"Everything went over big, and everything was well enjoyed by all of those present," stated Aaron Unger and Aaron Glick, co-chairmen for the affair. The chairmen wish to express their wholehearted thanks to the entire community, and the committees, who assisted in making the picnic one of the outstanding events in recent years.

Prizes Awarded

Various games and contests were held at the outing and prizes awarded the winners. Prizes were awarded to holders of lucky numbers. They included an automobile and a radio. The radio was given through courtesy of the Kempler Radio Company. It was awarded to Charles Lampel. Mrs. A. Fleig, 53 West 23rd street won the automobile.

Other events on the program included Bingo, dancing, a baseball game, games of chance, and raffles.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of Beth El Zedeck Congregation Monday night, plans were discussed for a banquet for the picnic committees, to be held soon.

HEBREW REQUIRED FOR ADMISSION TO PALESTINE

WARSAW (JTA)—Jews who wish to emigrate from Poland to Palestine will not receive immigration certificates from the Jewish Agency unless they first master the Hebrew language, it was announced here by Isaac Gruenbaum, head of the immigration department of the Jewish Agency.

Mr. Gruenbaum, now on a visit here, emphasized that this restriction will enter into force in April of 1936.

"We do not intend to close the doors of Palestine. We insist, however, that prospective immigrants should be best fitted for life in the country. Knowledge of the Hebrew language is one of the major requirements," Mr. Gruenbaum said.

The announcement by Mr. Gruenbaum is in line with a decision adopted recently by the Executive of the Jewish Agency in Palestine to give preference in granting immigration certificates to those who speak Hebrew.

Beginning next year every candidate for an immigration certificate to Poland will have to pass a special examination in the Palestine offices in Poland, as well as in other countries to prove sufficient knowledge of Hebrew before the immigration certificate will be granted.

Gruenbaum, addressing a Zionist gathering here, condemned the Jewish illegal immigration into Palestine. He pointed out that most of those who enter Palestine illegally are undesirable elements. He also emphasized that the Jewish Agency would have received more certificates from the Palestine government if there were no illegal immigration.

BADGES TO DESIGNATE PEDDLERS IN BELGIUM

BRUSSELS, (JTA) — Special badges were introduced this week by the Belgian authorities for market peddlers of foreign citizenship, ninety per cent of whom are Jews.

The order issued provides that those peddlers who are not Belgian citizens must display red emblems in distinction to the blue badges which the Belgian citizens will display.

This distinction is causing grave consternation among the Jewish peddlers, who are chiefly subjects of Poland and other east-European countries.

A campaign against permitting foreign Jews to trade in Belgium has been going on for several years. The government, however, paid little attention to this drive.

JEWS DISREGARD BRITISH POLICY

UNSUCCESSFUL IMMIGRANT FARMERS ACQUIRE 12,000 ACRES

LONDON, (JTA) — Much interest has been aroused here by a report from Famagusta in the Morning Post, that according to information obtained from the Land Registry office, land held by Jews in Cyprus, now amounts to some 12,000 acres, representing an investment of about £72,000 ($360,000).

About half of this land, according to the Morning Post, was taken over by new companies, and immigrants from unsuccessful Jewish families.

Although the land was acquired at an average price of £6 ($30) per acre—the prevailing price for cereal land—it is really worth far more, according to the newspaper's correspondent, since it is well situated near water supply and is suitable for orange planting.

Orange growing land usually sells for £30 ($150) per acre in Cyprus.

Against Immigration

What makes these figures interesting is that only recently the new Secretary for the Colonies, in his first Parliamentary utterance on Palestine and the Near East, came out against Jewish immigration into Cyprus, declaring that the government's policy is to safeguard the livelihood of the inhabitants of the island, which would be prejudiced by allowing immigrants to enter freely into the island.

The Morning Post predicts that final figures for the export of Cyprus Jaffa oranges will be considerably below last season's record, partly due to the smallness of the crop.

It reports hope among growers that the government will undertake an advertising program for Cyprus oranges, which are finding markets continually more restricted by the increasing Palestine production.

Measures for alternative crops, such as deciduous fruits, are also being considered. Cyprus cherries, for instance, fetch high prices in Palestine and the demand far exceeds the supply.

Jews Get Work In Crimea Harvesting Year's New Crops

MOSCOW (JTA)—The entire population in the collective Jewish farms in Crimea was mobilized this week for harvesting the new crop, which is expected to be the most bountiful ever produced in that region.

In view of the shortage of farm hands, all Jewish farmers and their families will be living in the fields during the harvest period. Special tents are now being pitched to accommodate the Jewish workers with lodging, dining facilities and recreation.

The mass removal from the colonies into the fields will start within the next few days. The Crimean authorities are also making arrangements for an open-air theatre in the fields, where the Jewish colonists will enjoy concerts and dramatic presentations given by artists of the Jewish theatres in Moscow, Kharkov and Kiev.

The Comzet, the government committee to settle Jews on the land, has now worked out a plan for the settlement in Crimea of the rest of the declassified Jews of the Winnitza region. This region, located in the Ukraine, is particularly known for its large number of declassified Jews.

The Comzet has decided that half of the quota assigned for new Jewish colonists in Crimea this year should be allocated to Jews from Winnitza. Local authorities in this region were instructed by Moscow to give every assistance possible to Jews who desire to proceed to Crimea.

The Comzet has at the same time sent instructions to its representatives in the Winnitza sector to organize further emigration.

DEPORTATION

A bitter attack has been launched at Col. D. W. McCormack, immigration commissioner, by Representative Dies of Texas for the former's alleged propaganda against an alien deportation bill. The Texan contends there are between 60,000 and 70,000 aliens in the United States and urges deportation of those who entered illegally or who have declined to become citizens. The representative accuses the immigration commissioner of using government funds and violating the law in an effort to influence members of Congress against the bill. Racial and religious prejudices also have entered the discussion, Dies charges.

The commissioner's activities should be limited to enforcement of the law and proof of any sort of propaganda should subject him to immediate removal. The American public has decided views on the immigration problem. It has rejected the old melting pot myth as a delusion of perfervid orators of another generation. That period permitted too much of Europe's riffraff to enter the United States. This country's opportunities are still available to foreigners who can't be assimilated and who appreciate the obligations of citizenship.

The administration should adopt a sterner policy in dealing with aliens who bring their foreign political attachments over here. It is assumed that alien criminals will be deported without unnecessary ado. Similar treatment should be accorded the "friends" of this or that brand of European politics. No organized aid or opposition to Italian fascism or German Hitlerism should be tolerated. A sufficient period should be allowed aliens to take out citizenship papers. At its expiration those still retaining foreign allegiance, except in a few special cases, should be deported. Nationalism can assume no better form than in the demand that the country rid itself of aliens unworthy or unwilling to assume the responsibilities of citizenship.

THOUGHT OF THE WEEK

"Gradually we are learning to apply the ideal of George Washington, who said the United States 'gives to persecutors no sanction, to bigotry no assistance.' We must come to the position at which we shall recognize and admit that a Catholic or Jew has as much right to the Presidency of our country as has the most orthodox Protestant. No matter how we deny it, religious prejudice, so far our Presidents have always been Protestant and when Al Smith, a Catholic, ran, religious bogey promptly arose."

By Dr. Everett R. Clinchy, noted Protestant minister and director, National Conference of Jews and Christians.

JANNINGS BANNED IN GERMANY

PRAHA, (JTA) — Emil Jannings, screen actor, has been forbidden to appear in German films because his "Aryanism" did not prove satisfactory to the Ministry of Propaganda, it is reported from Berlin.

The report states that Otto Gebuhr, well-known German actor, has also been barred from German films by order of the Ministry of Propaganda on the charge that his "Aryan" origin has not been proven.

JEWS IN SCOTLAND

MONTAGUE JACOBS

This is the first of a series of articles on the situation of Jewish communities throughout the world by Jewish Telegraphic Agency correspondents. This article deals with Scotland.—Editor.

GLASGOW — So often is Great Britain referred to incorrectly as England that most people are apt to forget that an integral part of the British Isles is Scotland, in which a considerable number of Jews have settled within the last thirty years.

In the absence of any definite statistics, it is reckoned, more or less accurately, that 25,000 Jews are resident in the land 'o the heather and the haggis, the biggest portion, about 18,000—having settled in Glasgow, and 5,000 in the capital of Scotland, Edinburgh. A few hundred families are to be found in Greenock, Falkirk, Dunfermline, Dundee, Ayr, and they have even taken by storm that stronghold of thrift and Scotch stories—Aberdeen.

Edinburgh was the first Scottish city to attract Jewish settlers and in 1816 some twenty families were resident in that East of Scotland town, while it was thirteen or fourteen years afterwards that a community was established in Glasgow. The latter city, with its great industrial activity, proved most popular with the Jews, is seen by the figures of the present-day dispersion of Scottish Jewry.

First Bargain

We find the Jews of Glasgow driving their first bargain in 1832, when one of their number died of cholera. The community, small as it then was, had not obtained a burial ground, and they immediately applied to the committee which was arranging for the opening of the new Necropolis in Glasgow. The Jewish delegation to the committee pleaded the urgency of their case and, although the ground had not been officially opened, they offered £100 if the committee would grant them space for a Jewish cemetery. The committee agreed, but later stated that the Jewish offer had been much less than afterwards obtained from other parties for similar pieces of ground!

Let us briefly survey Glasgow Jewry, for in this case Scotland and Glasgow are synonymous. At one time in Glasgow, Gorbals was the recognized Jewish quarter, but with their material progress, the Jews have wandered out to the new suburbs, and are thus causing a serious disruption in the community. Charitable institutions find it difficult to follow up subscribers, who suddenly remove; synagogues lose their members and are faced with financial disaster; new synagogues are being built and are used merely on festivals; in many districts there are no schools, with the result, Hebrew education is being seriously neglected.

Figures, just issued, showed that the Glasgow Talmud Torah, situated in the Gorbals, has suffered so much by the removal of Jewish families, that the number of pupils has dropped from 400 to 250 in the last two years. A further sign of the general disinterest shown by the community in communal activity is the manner in which officials of the various institutions—who for the most part would willingly relinquish their posts—are annually returned to office without the slightest opposition.

On the first German Fund appeal, Glasgow Jews responded nobly with subscriptions totalling £3,000, but in succeeding appeals the enthusiasm was not so great and the funds suffered accordingly.

Boycott Campaign Hopeless

This forgetfulness of what has happened in Germany is emphasized in the way in which local Jewish firms are displaying in their windows goods clearly marked, "Made in Germany." The boycott campaign was hopeless, because of a lack of leadership. This dearth of men to take the reins and guide the community is responsible for its gradual disintegration.

Glasgow Jewry has the material of which leaders are made, but those who might attain positions of responsibility are either too intent on improving their business connections or the "studying medicine," for we are told that all the Jewish students at Glasgow University are without exception brilliant. Someone has prophesied that within a decade there will be more Jewish doctors in Glasgow than patients.

The community has two really fine organizations—the Board of Guardians and the Jewish Representative Council.

The Guardians, well organized, disburse some £5,000 annually among the poor of the local community; grants loans to help small traders who find themselves in temporary difficulties; assist families in which death or illness has meant a serious reduction in the income; and supplies about a tenth of the community with the necessities for the observance of Passover.

The Representative Council, is a body of great possibilities, and it must be admitted that it has done good work in the twenty-one years it has been in existence. The Council is composed of delegates from all principal senior organizations; eleven synagogues; and from the main charitable institutions; its business is to look after the affairs of Jewry in general.

One of its latest cases is an excellent example of how the Council, which is a miniature Board of Deputies, works. Recently one of the delegates brought to the notice of the Council the fact that a certain insurance company had issued instructions to its agents not to accept motor insurance business from Jews. The Council communicated with the company concerned with such good effect that the circular letter to the agents, was immediately withdrawn.

Speaking of the community's good points, we must mention that famous pipe band of the Jewish Lads' Brigade—the only Yiddish pipe band in the world, which with their khaki tunics and swinging kilts is to be found at most affairs of importance all over Scotland and England.

The future of the Jewish community in Scotland, does not look promising from an organized communal aspect, but, all things being equal, the Jewish business and professional man in Scotland appears to have every prospect of progressing very satisfactorily in whatever sphere he may be engaged.

New Jersey Stops Saturday Work At State Institutions

NEWARK, (JTA) — The practice of holding regular classes on Saturday, recently introduced in the State Normal Schools of New Jersey, will be discontinued. This decision was reached by the New Jersey State Board of Education, following protests filed by Rabbi Charles I. Hoffman and Benjamin Plotkin of this city.

A comprehensive brief, reviewing the constitutionality of the practice was prepared for the rabbis, by Louis E. Levinthal, an attorney of Philadelphia, at the request of the American Jewish Committee.

Levinthal claimed that the maintenance of Saturday classes in the Normal Schools is in violation of the constitution and laws of New Jersey, inasmuch as it involved an impairment of the right of free exercise of religion of those persons who have established the seventh day of the week as their Sabbath.

Two Features Again At Loew's Theatre

Loew's Theatre announces the showing of a double feature program for the week starting today. The first picture on the bill will be "Let 'Em Have It," which is a picture dealing with the Government Men of the secret service branch.

The second full length feature, is entitled "Calm Yourself," a romantic comical farce, starring Robert Young and Madge Evans.

The cast of "Let 'Em Have It" includes Richard Arlen, Virginia Bruce, Bruce Cabot, Alice Brady, Harvey Stephens, Gordon Jones, Eric Linden and J. Ferrell McDonald. Arlen, Stephens, and Jones are seen as the three fearless federal sleuths, who pit science and brains against machine guns.

Cabot is seen as Joe Keefer, a chauffeur who starts his shocking career of crime by engineering the attempted kidnap of his society girl employer, played by Virginia Bruce. Paroled, he grows more and more daring, finally becoming public enemy number 1.

The relentless pursuit and finally the spectacular capture of Keefer by the Federal Men, is said to make one of the most exciting and thrilling adventures yet to be filmed.

The story of the farce "Calm Yourself" deals with the worries, wiles, and wooing of Robert Young as head of a "confidential service" bureau. Inasmuch as he makes no limit as to the kind of work he will do, he soon is involved in complications that bring a rush of amusing and exciting episodes.

When he agrees to take care of a banker's young daughter until the proper time for the fiancé to announce the news of his marriage to a girl as young as his offspring, the bureau operator finds himself enmeshed in more woes, but abundant humor—and romance at the end of the trail for him.

The bill is concluded with the newest issue of Hearst Metrotone News.

Kay Francis Now At Apollo Theatre

Kay Francis, glamorous Warner Brother's star comes to the screen of the Apollo Theatre today in the new photoplay, "Stranded," a social drama presenting the personal of a woman who loves her social service career and is called on to renounce it for marriage. During the unfolding of the film a labor crisis proves the vital importance of her work, as it does with life in terms of human beings.

George Brent has the leading masculine role and the cast includes Patricia Ellis, Donald Woods, Robert Barrat, Barton MacLane, Joseph Crehan, William Harrigan, John Wray, Florence Fair and many others.

Based on the story, "Lady With A Badge," and directed by Frank Borzage, "Stranded" presents Miss Francis in the role of a Travelers Aid worker. She falls in love with George Brent, portraying the role of a rough and tough engineer, who is building the biggest bridge in the world. Brent is madly in love with Miss Francis, but believes a human being with a flaw should be thrown on the dump heap just as he would discard a girder for his bridge. This is contrary to the code of Miss Francis, due to her long association with the Aid work. The engineers eyes are finally opened when Kay saves not only himself from ruin at the hands of racketeers, but his beloved bridge as well. Complications follow that forces Kay to fight the clever machinations of a female love-thief in order to preserve her own romance and happiness.

Patricia Ellis plays the rich girl trying to break up the love affair between Kay Francis and Brent. Donald Woods has the part of a social worker hopelessly in love with Miss Francis. Robert Barrat has the role of a steel worker who periodically goes off on a bender, while Barton MacLane is the head of the building racketeers. Frankie Darro is seen as a down and out lad who has been given aid by the beautiful Travelers Aid worker.

Especially selected short subjects round out the program.

Christian Wilhelm von Dohn, at the suggestion of Mendelssohn, wrote a work in two volumes in 1781 advocating emancipation of the Jews.

TYPEWRITER TALK

By A. Stenog

About the late Otto H. Kahn, the story is told that while passing through New York's east side, he saw on the window of a shop the sign, "Julius Kahn, cousin of Otto H. Kahn, tailor." —Immediately, the wealthy art patron communicated with his attorney who took legal steps to force the tailor to remove the sign. . . . Passing through the Ghetto at a later date, Kahn happened to go by the same shop, which now bore a sign, "Julius Kahn, father of Otto H. Kahn, tailor." Enraged by the temerity of the man, Kahn stamped into the shop and demanded to know what was the idea. . . . "Well I'll tell you," the tailor replied, "I didn't like the way you acted last time, so when my son was born I called him Otto H. Now try and do me something. . . ."

JEWISH SPORTS SLANTS

By Arv Rothschild

We had the opportunity of seeing Dolly Stark, National league umpire and the only Jewish arbiter in the major leagues, in Cleveland in the press headquarters the morning of the all-Star game and the "ump" told some good tales. Stark, Albert if you please, coaches the Dartmouth basketball team during the off-season and he has been voted the most popular of his kind in the senior circuit, by fans and players.

We had heard of his reputation as being the nattiest dresser among the "callers" of baseball's "big show," and now we're firmly convinced that this is the truth. Stark is a picture of fashion and swank. But to get on with one of the tales:

"Umpires, to be adjudged tactful, should remain unaffected by the criticism of the fans, regardless of the circumstances. During a game at Philadelphia last spring, an inebriated fan wandered out onto the field to take issue with the umpire on some of his decisions. 'You're blind you big robber, you can't see,' accused the spectator. The umpire took the fan by the arm to get him off the field, saying, 'You are drunk, my friend, and don't know what you are doing. You had better go home and sober up.'

The fan didn't resist being escorted off the field, but as he left he gave the ump a parting shot—'I may be drunk, but tomorrow I'll be sober, and you'll still be blind.'"

Win World Series Tickets

All you lovers of the greatest national pastime, get a load of this. How would you like a couple of choice seats at the approaching world series this fall? They are yours for the writing—that is, provided you write the best letter on whom you consider the most popular and best Jewish athlete in professional baseball at this time.

This is a contest for EVERYBODY, sponsored by the Jewish Telegraphic Agency and The Jewish Post, and is not confined to the frenzied rooters in the bleachers or the rabid fans in the grandstand. Whether you park yourself in a bleacher pew, or the choicest box in the park, you have the same chance of winning a couple of genuine Annie Oakleys that will admit you to every game of the world series, no matter where the diamond classic is held.

The rules are simple, and no strings are attached. The contest will run one month, but attempt to file your entry within three weeks to avoid a last minute effort and to promulgate a quick decision by the judges. Write a letter of not more than 250 words on the man you consider the outstanding Jewish player in big league baseball. Send your entries to Morris Wiener, Sports Editor of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, 1150 Broadway, New York City. Mr. Wiener will announce the decision and award the winner with passes as soon as possible after the closing date of the contest.

Six Remain

The current baseball season has rounded the halfway mark, and with the progress of the season comes the elimination of the unseasoned players. As a result the ranks of the Jewish big league performers have been depleted and at the present writing only six remain on the American and National league rosters. Phil Weintraub and Harry Danning, the only two in the senior loop, are with the Giants. Milton Galatzer roams in center field for the Cleveland Indians while Hank Greenberg sets a whirlwind pace with the willow for the Detroit Tigers. Heinie Manush and Buddy Myers complete the Yiddish sextet as they remain prominent cogs in the functioning of the Washington Senators diamond machine.

Gone from the ranks of the Brooklyn Dodgers, is pitcher Harry Eisenstat, the "boy wonder," who was shipped to Dayton for seasoning. Morris Aronovitch has disappeared from his former position as one of the most promising rookies in the camp of the Philadelphia Phillies. Freddie Sington, outfielder, and Sid Cohen, pitcher, are back with Chattanooga, having failed to find favor in the eyes of officials of the Washington Senators.

Passing Thought—Alex Clowson, Ohio State's second base star and captain last season, has been signed by the Fargo-Morehead club of the Northern league. This reminds us that the club is a farm belonging to the Cleveland Indians and we would not be surprised if he should be recalled to the American league team before the present season terminates. Clowson was a tough batter and an accurate fielder at the Buckeye institution.

FIRMS YOU SHOULD KNOW

HOME ELEVATOR CO.

The average commercial establishment is efficient and well able to serve its customers because of the various parts and equipment that go to make up its component parts.

Such features as store and building elevators, are contributing to the business of the stores and are building quality service that make goods easier to transport; in fact makes the stock in the store and the people less difficult to move.

In such fashion the dumb elevator is giving to the apartment houses a type of service that reduces much labor, by making distance negligible.

In Indianapolis, located at 1142 Southeastern avenue, phone LINcoln 3295, THE HOME ELEVATOR COMPANY, is known as one of the firms whose service in this connection, deserves mention in this educational issue. They specialize in the manufacturer of passenger and freight elevators and automatic dumb waiters and offer service, after installing their products.

They play a great part in the civic improvement of our community and it is with pride that we give them prominent mention in this educational survey.

H. H. SMITH COMPANY

When any one achieves more than ordinary success, they have overcome obstacles which are infinitely more difficult than they may seem. It is a proven axiom. So many people have become outstanding in their business relations that they deserve more than ordinary credit.

In all lines of business, today, there are some that stand out pre-eminently to the front. One that has risen above the rest and caters to the buyers in an honest straight forward manner with quality merchandise.

In looking over the various business firms of Indianapolis in this educational review, we are pleased to bring before our many readers the services offered by the H. H. Smith Company, Indianapolis leading Barber and Beauty supply company, located at 72 W. New York street, phone LINcoln 3267.

This concern handles a complete line of beauty equipment for the up-to-date beauty salon, and we suggest to readers, who are in this business, to get in touch with them and see the wonderful line.

Mr. Smith strives to keep abreast of the times, and invites you to drop in at any time and procure some of your cutlery, face creams, lotions, hair tonics and cosmetics from quality stock.

He takes this opportunity to wish his many Jewish friends the very best of season greetings, and the Post wishes his company the greatest of success.

INDIANA PLATING

THE INDIANA PLATING COMPANY, located at 474 South Meridian street, and 10 West Henry street, phone RILEY 5717, offers one of the most modern day services in this part of the state.

They have the reputation of turning out only the highest classes of plating and polishing work, and at the most reasonable prices. All work is turned out as promised and they have built their prosperous business to high standards.

This firm does work in polishing and plating for large concerns in and near the city, and they have equipped their plant with the many necessary machines to cope with this trade.

All work of this concern is under the direction of men who are thoroughly skilled.

They feature service to automobile owners that is unexcelled, and we suggest that if your car is in need of plating, call on them.

It is not necessary to detail the items of their varied services, but let us stress the point that when you are in need of polishing or plating, to call this reliable firm for an estimate before you give the job to any one.

Mr. Cranfill takes this opportunity to wish his many friends the very best of seasons greetings, with an invitation to visit his plant and see good plating work.

International Harvester Co.

The International Harvester Company of America, located at 319 S. Missouri street, phone, LINcoln 7391, of which Mr. Brookbank is manager, has many satisfied patrons throughout this section of the state, and renders a valued and essential service. This prominent concern merits the patronage of all people. No review of business, agriculture, or industrial interests of the city would be complete without prominent mention of this firm. It is a well known fact that there is no institution in the city that has met with greater favor than the International Harvester Company, by reason of the fact that the management has had wide experience in every phase of this business. This establishment has continued to witness an increasing clientele and their products are in demand by all who insist on the best.

It is important in the return to normalcy that we have conscientious firms like this in our midst. Their policy along these lines will be interesting reading for many business men, as through their policy they have built up a large and growing business.

Mr. Brookbank takes this opportunity to wish all of his friends the best of seasons greetings, and extends a hearty welcome to see the wonderful displays they have.

BUY COAL NOW

THE OEFTERING - LITZELMAN COAL COMPANY, 1130 Kentucky avenue, RILEY 5071, has served the Jewish people of Indianapolis for many years with a quality product that is essential to every home—COAL.

BEAUTY BOB SHOPS

For many years the BEAUTY-BOB SHOP, has catered to the discriminating women of Indianapolis and surrounding territory, with an efficient service in all of its branches. So many women have become part of the business world that various institutions that were considered secondary, have taken important parts in the commercial field. Formerly, the beauty salon was looked upon as a place in which the fair sex could be made fairer. Today, however, this condition has been changed and the up-to-date establishment for the promotion of pulchritude is recognized as the most valuable asset to the woman today. The BEAUTY-BOB SHOP in studying the demands of the women today, has gained a place of enviable reputation as has been shown by the increasing patronage, and the necessity of opening another shop to care for patrons. These shops on the north side, located conveniently, at 3771 College avenue, phone WASHINGTON 1287 and at 12 West 27th street, phone TALbot 5727, offers a complete service, at prices that will suit all.

Permanent waving, marceling, eyebrow arching, facials, scalp treatments, finger waving, and shampooing under the most sanitary conditions, with the most modern of equipment and operators.

Beautiful interiors, proper lighting and courteous employee's make these shops the most popular in Indianapolis. The POST in this educational survey go on record as recommending the splendid services to be obtained here.

LOU ANN BEAUTY SHOPPE

THE LOU ANN BEAUTY SHOPPE, of 2202 Shelby street, and 117 East Palmer street have been enjoying a good business.

Here one can obtain the latest in all phases of beauty culture including permanent waving, shampooing, finger waving, marceling, eye brow arching, and manicuring by skilled operators.

The satisfied customers of Anna M. Gruner, the proprietress, expressed their satisfaction to their many friends so that it was necessary for her to open another shop.

Here one can obtain the best in beauty culture, rendered by skilled operators, using the latest equipment and in surroundings that are clean and sanitary.

These shops have become popular for Jewish women of Indianapolis and in making this educational survey for the readers of the Post, we are pleased to give prominent mention to these shops, and suggest that you give them a trial.

Miss Gruner tries to keep abreast of the times in this work and deserves the patronage of our many readers. Miss Gruner has two capable assistants, Misses Louise Thomas and Violet Lark.

The personell and Miss Gruner take this opportunity to wish their many Jewish friends the best of Season Greetings.

117 E. Palmer street, Miss Alreida Peterson, manager, Mildred Foltz, assistant, Hilda Fussner, and Anna M. Gruner, proprietress.

GLEASON'S PIES

Pie is one of America's most popular deserts. In no other country does pie enjoy such tremendous popularity. It has become so popular, that it is part of every meal.

In Indianapolis there is a firm that supplies discriminating restaurant owners with this dessert. It is the GLEASON HOME MADE PIE BAKERY, located at 1917 Southeastern avenue, phone DRExel 7655. This firm has been in business for many years and set the standard for a product that suits the most fastidious persons.

The pies baked by this concern come in true fruit flavors and are made in cream and custards. The best ingredients are used and all are baked in a most sanitary manner.

Gleasons Home Made Pies are in great demand by all of the leading restaurants of the city.

"The proof of the pie is in the eating" and the adage that a "good pie" is judged by its crust, is true of the pies baked by this concern. They specialize in a flaky and tasty crust as appetizing as the filling itself.

We suggest that the next time you are in a restaurant for a meal, to specify that you get Gleasons Home made pie for desert. It will top off the meal to perfection.

Gleasons specialize in pies for clubs, socials, organizations and parties. Call DRExel 7655 when you are in need of a quantity order.

Mr. Gleason takes this opportunity to wish his many Jewish friends the very best of season's greetings.

STERLING BEER

The Name Sterling is what it implies... "the BEST" Throughout the country, Sterling beer is recognized for its tasty quality and refreshing stimulus.

The tremendous demand for this product speaks for its merits and one will find that it not only quenches the thirst, but leaves that satisfied feeling.

A satisfied customer is the dealers best asset, and STERLING BEER will come up to these requirements at all times. Sterling may be found at leading restaurants and Taverns where good beverages are to be had, and these dealers recommend this beer because they know that you will be satisfied.

The Dunn Beverage Company, located at 1440 N. Senate avenue, phone LINcoln 3435, are local distributors of this famous product and merit the patronage of all discriminating dealers who want a product that will give them a good turnover.

This Company is operated under the management of Mr. Harry Dunn, who states that Sterling is brewed in the largest plant in the world, and only the very best ingredients are used in its manufacture.

In making this educational survey, we take pleasure in bringing this reliable concern before our many readers and suggest that you order a case of STERLING BEER or STERLING ALE. Mr. Dunn wishes you all the very best.

Lay Cornerstone For Gordon Memorial Museum

JERUSALEM, (JTA) — The cornerstone for a museum to be built in the Jewish colony of Dagania in memory of Aaron David Gordon, Jewish labor leader, was laid Tuesday.

The museum will be devoted to natural history and agriculture.

Gordon was known as the "Jewish Tolstoy," and the exponent of the "religion of labor." At the age of fifty, he left his family in Russia and came to Palestine to become a chelutz.

He traveled from commune to commune, preaching the simple life, and the dignity of labor. He died in Dagania in 1922.

BEN-ZION HERSCH DIES

JOHANNESBURG, (JTA) — Ben Zion S. Hersch, one of the builders of the Zionist movement in South Africa and a founder of the South African Jewish Board of Deputies, died here Tuesday.

Hersch was one of the most prominent Jews in South Africa. He was associated with the national movement from the early days of Herzl. He helped organize the South African Zionist Federation and served as a member of the executive council of that body since 1910.

He was the first immigration officer of the Board of Deputies in Cape-town and rendered extensive services to the Jewish community in matters of immigration and naturalization.

Hersch also contributed to the local and foreign press. For a period he was editor and publisher of the Jewish Standard of Johannesburg. He helped develop the Zionist Record from a monthly official magazine to a largely circulated weekly journal. Until his death, he was honorary chairman of the editorial board of the paper.

A blessed event in the family, prevented Walter Winchell from appearing in some "flicker" sequences.
